PRIOR EMPLOYMENT EXPERIENCE

Coordinator of Research, 2004-2008, Research Associate, 2001-2004, Southwest

Interdisciplinary Research Center, ASU

Develop research manuscripts for presentation at professional meetings and for publication. Statistically analyze survey data. Participate in proposal development for National Institutes of Health and other grants. Manage data collection, compilation, and storage in conformance with requirements for human subjects protection. Provide methodological support (research design and statistical analysis) to investigators and students. Collaborate with community agencies providing data. Supervise graduate research assistants and student workers. Provide training in research methodology and statistics both one-on-one and through “brown bag” presentations. Provide guidance and technical support to students assigned to faculty research projects.

Senior Evaluator, 2001, Arizona Office of the Auditor General

Led all facets, from research design through report writing, of an outcome evaluation of a state-funded family violence intervention program. Merged, manipulated, and statistically analyzed large databases, tested the validity and reliability of data, conducted other fieldwork, and documented findings in writing. Met regularly with program administrators and participated in statewide meetings of service providers. Provided training informally as a staff supervisor and formally through workshops.

Evaluator II, 2000. Arizona Office of the Auditor General

For evaluations of an early childhood block grant program and a family violence program, collected, tested, and analyzed qualitative and quantitative data and regularly compiled findings into written summaries.

Performance Auditor I, 1998-1999, Arizona Office of the Auditor General

Evaluated state agency effectiveness in three areas: emergency medical services, public health epidemiology, and public safety aviation. Assisted in the development of the audit plan; conducted field research, using multiple methods, including data testing and analysis, interviews, surveys and literature reviews; and documented analyses in writing.

Research Consultant, 1998-1999. Intern, 1997-1998, National Council on Crime and Delinquency

Conducted focus groups, developed a survey instrument, reviewed literature, and produced a written report for an evaluation of AZ police response to violence against women. Collected and qualitatively analyzed data, produced regular quantitative reports, and conducted a literature review for the process and outcome evaluations of the AZ Department of Juvenile Corrections and First Arizona Youth Academy.

Research Consultant, 1998, Department of Health Administration and Policy, ASU

Collected and analyzed interview and supplemental data and authored the report of a community needs assessment for a local hospital.

Research Assistant, 1998, Survey Research Lab, ASU

Collected, compiled, and managed data and created a database for a survey of rural adolescents. Co-authored the report for the participating community organization and a research publication.

Graduate Research Assistant, 1996-1998, Sociology Department, ASU

Collaborated on a study of the resilience of rural at-risk youth. Collected, coded, managed, and statistically analyzed survey data. Assisted with the questionnaire design, sample recruitment, literature review, and data coding for a survey of local cosmetic and plastic surgeons. Supported a faculty member in the teaching of an undergraduate Social Statistics course. Led a discussion section of an undergraduate Introductory Sociology course.

Intern, 1997, Office of Medical Research, Maricopa County Medical Center

Conducted statistical analyses for the hospital's socio- and biomedical research projects.

Assistant to Director, 1994-1996, Administrative Assistant, 1993-1994, Women's Action Alliance
